ABSTRACT

This databook was compiled by New York City Technical College of the City University of New York to reflect fall 1988 data on admissions, enrollment, graduation, personnel, and other statistics. The databook is divided into five major sections. The first presents admissions statistics, including data on registration by curricula for first-time freshmen and college transfer students, show rate trends from fall 1983 to fall 1988 for first-time freshmen and transfer students, college admissions averages of first-time freshmen for fall 1976 to fall 1988 and spring 1984 to spring 1988, and first-time freshmen degree students by year of high school graduation and full-/part-time status for fall 1988. The second section lists selected enrollment statistics, including annualized headcounts, enrollment trends, full-/part-time enrollment, full-time equivalency trends by department and by years, and enrollments by various demographic characteristics, such as gender, citizenship, residence, age, family income, and ethnicity. The third section presents a graduate profile and graduation statistics by division, curricula, and academic year for 1948-49 through 1987-88 and by division, curricula, and gender for 1987-88. The next section contains faculty and staff statistics, considering the characteristics (e.g., ethnicity, gender, and department) of instructional staff, support staff, tenured full-time faculty, adjuncts, and administrators. In addition, student/faculty ratios for fall 1980 through fall 1988 are provided. The final section presents information on academic organization, the college library, continuing education, and division and college-wide budgets. (JMC)

FOREWORD

The Fall 1988 volume of the DATACORE features a new and attractive appearance. Recent advances in personal computer software and hardware have enabled the Office of Institutional Research and Analysis to produce a presentation quality document that possesses the appearance of being professionally published. The new and improved DATACORE should prove to be an attractive reference for your own use and one that you will be proud to share with external constituencies.

It should be noted that definitional differences between computerized reports generated for use by the City University of New York and New York City Technical College, and different "freeze" dates for various computer files, may lead to slight statistical variations among different tables for the same population (for example, first-time freshmen). Therefore, when referring to the various tables in the DATACORE, it is advisable to pay close attention to the data source(s) listed at the end of each table.

Finally, the Office of Institutional Research and Analysis welcomes your suggestions in terms of making the DATACORE more relevant to your informational needs. Please forward your recommendations to the Office of Institutional Research and Analysis, Namm Hall, Room 322.

Thank you.

OVERVIEW

1987: A new A.A.S. program in Telecommunications was approved during the Fall, 1987 semester.

Four Engineering Technology programs previously housed at the Voorhees Campus in Midtown Manhattan, relocated to the newly named and renovated Voorhees Hall in Brooklyn at 186 Jay Street (North Campus).

Voorhees Hall was dedicated as the new Engineering Technology Center of New York City Technical College.

A new library consolidating two branch and one main library was housed in a bi-level space in the new Atrium Building (South Campus).

The College celebrated its 40th anniversary in May, 1987.

1988: All Master Plan construction was completed during the Spring, 1988 semester, and the new Atrium Building was dedicated in May, 1988.

DEFINITIONS AND FORMULAS

EQS is an acronym for Equivalent Students. It is computed by dividing the student credits for the unit under observation (i.e., college, division, department) by the average full-time student credit load for that unit.

FTE Students is an acronym for Full-Time Equivalent Students. When observing a semester, it is computed by dividing the student credits (i.e., the sum of the number of credits plus the number of hours of non-credit remedial courses) for the unit under observation by 15, as presented in the Staff and Teaching Load Report. If an entire year is observed, the student credits are divided by 30. Continuing Education FTE is computed by dividing total contact hours by 450.

FTE Faculty equals the headcount of the full-time faculty plus the teaching hours of part-time faculty and department chairs divided by 15, as presented by department in the Staff and Teaching Load Report.

STUDENT/FACULTY RATIO is the ratio between FTE students and the Equivalent faculty. This is a State of New York definition and describes the relationship between "equated" groups of students and the faculty instructing them. It is not a headcount to headcount ratio, nor is it an average class size. It is a mathematical construct used by the State and other agencies for comparing colleges.

The following formula was used to compute the Student Faculty Ratios in this volume of the DATACORE (page 67):

ADMISSIONS PROFILE

A total of 4,804 first-time freshmen were accepted for admission into the College for the Fall 1988 semester. Of this total, 2,609 freshmen actually registered, which resulted in a "show rate" of 54.3% (pages 2 and 3).

A total of 788 transfer students were accepted for admission into the College for the Fall 1988 semester, and 571 actually registered, resulting in a "show rate" of 72.5% (pages 4 and 5).

The "show rates" for departments, divisions, and the entire College are computed as follows:

$$\text{Show Rate} = \frac{\text{Number of Students Who Register}}{\text{Number of Students Who Were Admitted}}$$

Approximately half of the Fall 1988 first-time freshmen came to the College with high school averages at or below 79.9%, including 13.8% with averages between 75 and 79.9; 18.2% with averages between 70 and 74.9; and 18.1% with averages below 70. Nearly 14% of these freshmen obtained General Equivalency Diplomas (page 7). Further, 61% were "recent" high school graduates, having graduated from high school within the last three years (page 9).

NEW YORK CITY TECHNICAL COLLEGE
FALL 1988

ENROLLMENT PROFILE

The total student enrollment for the Fall 1988 semester was 10,323, which represented an increase of 2.3% from the Fall 1987 enrollment of 10,089. The percentage of full-time students declined from 58.4% of the Fall 1987 student population to 57.9% of the Fall 1988 student population. There was a corresponding increase in the percentage of part-time students between the Fall 1987 and Fall 1988 semesters, with part-time students accounting for 41.6% of the Fall 1987 student body and 42.1% of the Fall 1988 student body (page 12).

The Full-Time Equivalent Students (FTE) increased by 3.4% between the Fall 1987 (7,325 FTE) and Fall 1988 (7582 FTE) semesters. The Equivalent Students (EQS) also increased between the Fall 1987 (7,921 EQS) and Fall 1988 (8,106 EQS) semesters by 2.3% (page 18).

More than three-fifths of Fall 1988 degree students were freshmen (6,584 students-63.8%), while sophomores comprised 32.5% of the total (3,359 students). Less than 1% of degree students were third (0.7%) and fourth (0.5%) year Bachelor of Technology students (pages 21 and 22).

About 18% of the Fall 1988 total student body was enrolled in the Division of Health and Natural Sciences; 36.4% was enrolled in the Division of Business and Communications Technology; 27.1% was enrolled in the Division of Engineering Technology; and 15.5% was enrolled in the Division of Liberal Arts and Sciences (pages 21 and 22).

Over 2,900 full and part-time students were enrolled for courses in the Weekend College, including 1,571 full-time students and 1,371 part-time students (pages 23 and 24).

As in previous semsters, the Fall 1988 student body was nearly equally divided between males (50.5%) and females (49.5%). However, females constituted the majority of the enrollment in three of the four academic divisions: Health and Natural Sciences (74.9%); Business and Communications Technology (58.6%); and Liberal Arts and Sciences (69.6%). But males (93.0%) predominated in the Division of Engineering Technology (pages 26 and 27). Further, females outnumbered males among part-time students by 51.0% to 49.0%. But the opposite was true among full-time students, with males out-numbering females by 51.6% to 48.4% (page 28).

More than 40% of the Fall 1988 total student body were between the ages of 17 and 19 (20.4%) and 20-22 (26.2%). An even larger percentage of Fall 1988 first-time freshmen (70%) were within these age groups (pages 29 and 30).

Exactly 96.0% of the Fall 1988 student body resided within the five boroughs of New York City, including 64.2% from Brooklyn; 15.0% from Queens; 7.8% from Manhattan; 6.0% from the Bronx; and 1.7% from Staten Island. Between one and two percent were from New York State outside of New York City; other states within the U.S.A.; and foreign countries (page 33).

The College's "re-registration rate" between the Fall 1983 and Spring 1988 semesters ranged from a low of 75.0% for the Fall 1986 semester to a high of 83.0% for the Spring 1988 semester. Conversely, the "drop-out" rate ranged from a high of 25.0% for the Fall 1986 semester to a low of 17.0% for the Spring 1988 semester. The overall attrition rate, which accounts for students who drop out of the College and students who are academically dismissed, ranged from a low of 17.0% for the Spring 1988 semester to a high of 37.8% for the Fall 1983 semester (pages 34 and 35).

As of the Fall 1988 semester, approximately 85% of City Tech students were members of minority groups, the largest of which were Blacks (56.6%), followed by Hispanics (20.5%); Asians/Pacific Islanders (8.2%); and American Indians/Alaskan Natives (0.2%). Further, according to the latest available statistics (Fall 1986), nearly 58% of enrolled students reported annual family incomes of $15,999 or less (pages 36-39).

More than one-third (36.5%) of the students who attended the College during the Fall 1988 semster (3,764) hailed from foreign countries and had resided in the United States for ten years or less. Among them were 724 who enrolled in the Division of Health and Natural Sciences; 1,318 who enrolled in the Division of Business and Communications Technology; 1,250 who enrolled in the Division of Engineering Technology; and 462 who enrolled in the Division of Liberal Arts and Sciences. These students speak a number of foreign languages, including Arabic; Chinese; French; Greek; Hebrew; Italian; Korean; Polish; Russian; Spanish; and Vietnamese (page 40). Further, statistics from the Fall 1988 semester reveal that over 90 nations are represented within the student body of New York City Technical College (pages 41 and 42).

COOPERATIVE ARRANGEMENTS

Academic Libraries of Brooklyn (ALB), an organization of nine college libraries in the downtown Brooklyn area, offers its constituents a combined book and journal collection of over 1,000,000 volumes, and a wide array of non-book materials and audio-visual equipment. The diversity of subjects contained in the ALB libraries reflects the range of curricula offered at these campuses, further enhanced by the specialized knowledge and skills possessed by the professional librarians within ALB.

CUNY Open Access is a cooperative agreement among 16 CUNY libraries. Under this program, students may use and borrow from all the libraries in the City University which are participating units. Students must be currently enrolled with a valid ID or bursar's receipt, and must abide by the circulation rules set up by the lending library.

NY Metropolitan Reference and Research Library Agency (METRO), a cooperative organization of some 113 member libraries, offers a myriad of cooperative programs including Cooperative Acquisition Program (CAP), delivery service (INTERSHARE), CARES and seminars and workshops for librarians.
